PechaKucha (Japanese for chit chat) was conceived in Japan in 2003 as a place for young designers to meet, network and show their work in public.

It has grown to include more than 180 cities worldwide, answering a global demand for a forum where creative work can be easily and informally shown. The unique format of 20 images discussed in 20 seconds each keeps presentations concise, interest level up, and gives more people the chance to tell their story.
